Battled Customers
A company grows because its customers like its products. Unless a company produces something the public wants, and of quality and price that meet public approval, no amount of advertising can make that company a success. The story of American industry is the story of little companies that grew big because they had to be big to supply public demand.

When anyone maintains that a company is a monopoly only because it is big—that's silly talk. If a big company didn't satisfy its customers, another would soon take over the job—and become big in its turn.

United Community Drive Wins Industry And Jobs
An example of what united community effort can do without outside aid was furnished recently by the town of Hazelton, in Pennsylvania's anthracite coal district.

Hazelton's 40,000 residents have been chiefly dependent on the mines, which employed 14,000 in 1912. Then strip-mining began successful competition with the deep shaft mines of the Hazelton. By 1949 the deep shaft mines around Hazelton furnished fewer than 7,000 jobs. The town's school enrollment, 7,100 in 1939, slipped to 5,200 in 1946 as families left in search of work.

Hazelton's failure to attract new industries was partly because it isn't on a main highway or main railroad line or air line. The town's chamber of commerce tried, unsuccessfully until 1946, to interest some manufacturer in Hazelton's building sites.

But finally an Ohio manufacturer of automotive electrical equipment agreed to put a $350,000 plant in Hazelton on certain conditions. He said that first Hazelton residents must subscribe $500,000 and borrow another $750,000, to pay part of the cost. The company would pay $900,000 for the plant at $90,000 per year.

Hazelton went to work. Bankers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, and laborers pledged subscriptions. Labor unions joined in, one pledging $15,000. By united effort, the sponsors obtained $660,000 in pledges in four weeks.

The new plant was built, and was dedicated recently. It will employ from 500 to 1,500 workers, depending on rate of production.

UNCLE SAM

Glade with copies of the Congressional Record, Agricultural Yearbook, or voluminous report of hearings. If Senator Holland and Congressman Rogers should also at the same time send eligible documents postage free, the bicycles would need additional flashlights for night work.

Congressional mail, sent postage free, doesn't lie in post office—it's in the middle of the road. The PO Department is not to blame, the boys "on the Hill" who vote the bicycles are.

Anyhow, from now on the word "postman" means some body else. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!" From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every true American tradition of invention. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a beetles.

One route is practically all for negro residents and the other for white residents or appointed by the city.

The postman haven't yet been designated, selected or appointed by the city by April Fool's Day.

The release of bones by those who will receive free delivery is expected to relieve that congestion somewhat. If you're getting mail in a box not your own and you may be forced to stand in line and get your mail from General Delivery.

Something definite may be done about a new postoffice very early in April also, as bids are expected by the 6th for providing 2800 square feet.

Rotarians Nominate Board of Directors

Nominations for the Rotary Board of directors were made at the regular luncheon meeting held at the Hotel Hamilton, held at the next meeting.

Those nominated were: James Baldwin, Herb Beck, Guy Brundage, Tom Bringer, R. W. Cress, S. A. E. Kirkman, Charles Lantz, Robert Lester, George Royal, Herb Spier, Nattie Taylor, and Edward Thompson.

Robert Lester, President of the Rotary, presented a report on the tree cutting meeting which was held in West Palm Beach.

ford, announced the study course, "Parliamentary Procedure," scheduled for March 20-21, has been postponed, due to the fair, to March 27-28.

CITY FATHERS Continued from Page 1 ment was put forth that there be a plan of restitution as outlined and the appeal of the Commission, together with the petition for the removal of the bond and taxpayers, coupled with the fact that Wallis had no previous record, would weigh heavily with the court in the attempted rehabilitation of a young man, with a wife and young boy.

The Commission passed by a vote of 4 to 1 a motion rejecting the Wallis proposal. Commissioner Lloyd voting for a stipulation.

Commissioner Harris said: "I put all the money on a table with no strings attached or take the case to court then conducted by Special Master Jack Johnson on the 6th."

"It is the policy of the bank," said Lawrence, "to improve and operate this property with the objective of recovering the amount of its loans and incidental expenses. The bank will operate the property as a going concern for an indefinite period of time."

Drew is widely known in South Florida as he was with the Federal Land Bank before his association with the Bank for Cooperatives. During the past season, Drew has operated the Plantation under George Price, Court Receiver.

Supervisory Positions For Census Announced Those receiving top grades in recent census workers' tests will be given supervisory assignments, according to Ed D. Laughridge, District supervisor. Among those announced for these positions are Richard B. Owen, Chiverton, and Mrs. Miriam E. Dulaney, Pahokee.

Recruiting Office To Be Here Tuesdays Recruiting Office for the Army and Air Force will be in Belle Glade from 1 until 4 every Tuesday afternoon.

For any information, write to Laurence J. Genova, recruiting officer, in the new office in West Palm Beach located at 213 North Dixie.

Attorney Bains: "We welcome any investigation that city wants to make. Wallis is offering himself to make restitution. Don't make a goat out of him. He is going to plead guilty."

The missing records referred to in his are police records, not the Clerk's records. It was pointed out in the arguments that the auditor and disclosed missing funds that were not evident from the records.

Civil suit proceedings were filed in the Fifth District Circuit Court by the city of Belle Glade Monday afternoon, naming Alva Lafayette Wallis, defendant.

The bill of complaint states that on October 19 audit of books and records showed, "that certain monies collected by the defendant for the plaintiff had been applied by the defendant to his own individual use; that the said audit also showed that certain police fine and forfeiture records were missing."

The city asks that the defendant be required to return missing records and books, and that the defendant make accounting for funds collected by him during his employment with the city.

A large crowd attended the lecture and movie on Florida birds and wild life, sponsored by the P.T.A., presenting Mr. Alexander Sprunt, Jr. of the National Audubon Society, at the Everglades Theatre, Wednesday night.

The scenes, in technicolor, covered an actual two-day boat trip out of Okechobee City. Mr. Sprunt conducts these student tours during February and March each year.

While his assistant showed the pictures, Mr. Sprunt commented on each scene and emphasized the vital importance of conservation of wild life and natural resources.

Mrs. R. V. Allison, program chairman, was in charge of arrangements. The presentation replaced the regular P.T.A. meeting.

Farmers Look To High Production Efficiency

Low Marketing Costs

Work will be the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service are sure that the year 1950 will be one of great progress for Florida farmers.

Florida farmers, with highly perishable citrus fruits and truck crops predominating, will improve marketing efficiency, reduce production costs, and improve quality of their products, as well as continue their progress during the next few years.

Too many marketing agencies are operating, each with a relatively small volume and high handling costs which the producer bears. It is important that growers work together to reduce marketing costs through the formation and enlargement of cooperative marketing organizations or by agreement to patronize a relatively small number of the most efficient independent marketing agencies.

With the prospect for lower prices for farm products, while costs remain high, Florida farmers will do well to give increased attention to production efficiency. To maintain income at a high level, higher output per man will be the goal. Some ways in which the farmer will obtain this include:

1. Use his best land for cultivated crops.

2. Use livestock closely.

3. Use fertilizers, minor elements and pest controls judiciously.

4. Give careful attention to labor force to increase efficiency of workers.

5. Adopt carefully planned work methods and use improved machines and mechanical aids.

6. Use adapted varieties and good seed.

7. Keep, and study, cost records.

To improve the quality of farm products, it is necessary not only to grow the best varieties but also to handle and pack them properly and see that the marketing agency does a good job to insure top quality reaching the consumer. Florida farmers are definitely advancing along this line.

Give Breeding Hens Good Food For Best Results, Says USDA

A breeding hen, needs a somewhat better diet than a layer to insure the greatest possible number of vigorous chicks, says H. B. Bird, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This should mean nutrients that include the necessary amino acids, vitamins and minerals, as well as sources of energy.

For hatchability, riboflavin, vitamin D and manganese are important because amounts needed for hatching of eggs are larger than amounts needed for producing them. Besides, natural distribution of these materials is sufficiently restricted that they have to be supplied in special supplementary feeding. It was determined years ago that they may be added economically.

To this list Dr. Bird would add vitamin B12, which must be adequately supplied in the hen's diet to insure satisfactory hatchability of eggs and good health, rapid growth and early feathering of chicks. The carry-over from hen to chick is probably more important with this vitamin than with any other nutrient. It is pointed out, however, that a diet low in vitamin B12, their chicks will show a high death rate, slow growth, and poor feathering—even though the diet fed to the chicks themselves is very well fortified with this vitamin.

"Although the terms 'vitamin B12' and 'animal protein factor' are often used interchangeably, such usage is not correct because animal protein supplements contain not only vitamin B12 but other factors that are still unknown," says Dr. Bird.

The problem of adequately supplying this vitamin economically has been solved during the past year, mostly by using fermentation methods to produce concentrates for livestock feeding. It is explained. Previously the supply of the main source of vitamin B12 were fish meal, fish solubles and meat meal, which have been seriously short in supply. For the present it is recommended that the new concentrates now on the market be used to supplement the poultry diet rather than to replace the animal protein in the ration completely. At least 2 percent of fish solubles or 4 percent of meat meal should be included in the total ration of breeding birds, according to the USDA authority.

Clayton Urpse, full cooperation in 1950 Agricultural Census

All Florida farmers were urged by the State Agricultural Extension Service today to cooperate fully with the 1950 agricultural census to be taken in April.

"As the census will provide valuable information that will serve in future farm plans and developments," Extension Director H. G. Clayton said, "it is highly important that it be as accurate as possible and that all rural people give full cooperation to make it accurate."

Mr. Clayton explained that Florida has many more tractors, more electrified farm homes, more acres in improved pasture, and more acres in citrus and some other crops than it had five years ago, when the last agricultural census was taken, and that these and other developments should be recorded.

"Just as it is good business for a merchant to take inventory to find out how he stands, so it is advisable for the government to take an agricultural inventory or census every five years," he stressed.

Many farmers will receive sample copies of the census questionnaire by mail to they can fill them out and be ready to give the information to the census enumerator when he arrives. The questionnaire, made out for farmers throughout the nation, will include some questions that do not apply to them.

The Extension Service official pointed out that information given to a census enumerator is confidential and cannot be used for any other purpose. Individual farm information is not available to tax assessors, revenue agencies, or any other agency or individual, and the enumerator is prohibited by law from divulging it to anyone for any purpose.

"The forthcoming census,"

Mr. Clayton asserted, "should be as accurate and inclusive as possible, and I feel sure that Florida farm people will give their full cooperation to make it so."

Completing a special technical training school course for census workers, they are ready to attack organization of their sections.

Mrs. Dulany is in charge of the census.

Florida Had Greatest Farm Income Increase

Florida's gross cash farm income last year was 19 percent above 1948, the highest increase in the nation, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce pointed out today.

The second ranking in this respect was Texas with a 19 percent gain. Nationally farmers' cash receipts were off 10 percent.

Florida farmers received a total of $398,533,000 for their crops in 1949. Making up this total was $303,937,000 from the sale of all fruits, vegetables, nuts and field crops and $94, $18,000 from livestock and livestock products.

This week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division reported the 1949 income from crops as 32 percent above 1948 receipts because of better fruit and vegetable prices. Livestock and products income was 10 percent below 1948. This comparative drop in livestock returns was due principally to heavy cattle sales in 1948 while in 1949 cattle tended to build up herds rather than sell. This practice resulted in an increase of 10 percent in cattle numbers in Florida during 1949. The total gross income covers amounts received by Florida farmers from sales and does not include an aggregated 27 million in various loans and funds consumed on farms.

Smathers Conducts Tour Through West Florida

Rep. George Smathers in a series of campaign speeches in West Florida this week said: "When it came time for me to get an education, I did not choose to leave Florida for as Northern institutions which seem to infect some people with an alien philosophy."

"Felix Frankfurter had nothing to do with my education. I did not travel under the crimson banner of Harvard, but under the Orange and Blue of Florida."

Smathers referred to his stand on agricultural legislation and said he had been proud to vote for assistance to Florida farmers and against the "burdensome" which cut down liberties of both individuals and farmers.

"If you are receiving any benefits now," he added, "you need have no fear of losing them with me as your Senator. They are yours by law and no man has a right to take them from you. It is the public's money and it does not belong to any one man."

The National Guards Part-Time Army

The citizen-soldiers who voluntarily devote many after-work hours to training in the National Guard, are a vital factor in America's blueprint for defense.

In every war America has fought, the National Guard provided the core of trained soldiers who formed the nucleus for hard-training divisions and arms. observes the February Coronet article, The National Guard, Our Part-Time Army. Unlike in membership, the Guard boasts of a past that antedates by many years the establishment of the U. S. Army. More than 350,000 men throughout the country to trade their civilian careers for uniforms and participate in drills, weapon fire and military tactics as volunteer soldiers one night a week.

Each state organizes and controls its own Guard, with the Department of the Army distributing equipment and Regular Army instructors supervising training. The governor is the only man in peacetime who can mobilize his National Guard units—always for duty solely within state boundaries—but in the event of a national emergency, the President can order the Guard to Federal service.

The National Guard is the vehicle through which well-trained and peace preparedness in today's tense world. Coronet declares: "Their service signifies far more than the comparatively few hours devoted to drills and maneuvers. For every officer and soldier knows that he will be 'first to go' if war breaks."

"Meanwhile," concludes Coronet, "quietly and virtually unheralded, these volunteers' militiamen are marching in footprints etched by their congressional ancestors at Lexington and Concord."

College Graduates Seek Positions

Finding suitable jobs for the 230 students who will be graduating from Florida State University in Tallahassee and Florida Southern College in Lakeland this month is the present aim of the Florida State Employment Service placement program.

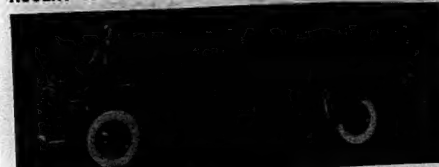

These students, who will be graduating March 15 and 17 respectively, represent 43 different fields of training. Courses such as accounting, economics, hotel and restaurant management, journalism, music, political science, physics, and many other fields will be represented by the graduates.

The field of education is well represented by 45 graduates with specialties in elementary, intermediate, or secondary work including some in business education and some in physical education.

Employers interested in employing graduates may call the Florida State Employment Service office in their localities and request applications from the graduates with the qualifications desired. These requests will be forwarded to the college where qualified students will be advised of the opening and assisted in making application.

According to Dr. Foss A. Hathaway, Director of the Employment Service, the chief purpose of this counseling is to find suitable jobs for these technically trained people, and, consequently, Florida educated graduates in Florida. This is the third year the Employment Service has conducted the College Placement Program.

ACCENT IS ON STYLE IN 1950 CHRYSLER MODELS

The Chrysler 1950 New Yorker four-door sedan, with modified longer rear fenders, more massive bumper, rear radiator grille, better visibility from the larger rear window and powered by the 135-hp. Splitfire engine.

Rear view of the Chrysler Windsor sedan Newport. A new steel top "convertible" with dual-tone styling around the rear window and no window or door points to obscure the view when windows are down.

Completely new and distinctive styling, producing added beauty inside and out, features the 1950 Chrysler line. Among the important improvements are a new grille, longer fenders carried to their full height almost to the rear of the car, a new and artistic grouping of tail light, stop-light and turn signal flash mounted in each rear fender, giving sleek, graceful rear lines; a new rear window with 27 per cent more glass area; a new steel top, Chrysler's new self-aligning disc brakes are standard equipment on the six-cylinder models. Western body styles are offered in the Royal, Windsor, New Yorker, Saratoga and Crown Imperial models.

There is a slight increase in exterior width, length and interior dimensions.

Let Girls Learn To Sew And Save In Clothing Project

With one eye on spring and the other on their pocketbooks, Florida 4-H Club girls are off to a good start in the 1950 National 4-H Clothing Achievement program. Last year more than 1500 girls throughout the state took part in the activity.

Intervent in the program is always been because every young lady—whether she's 10 or 20—likes pretty clothes in the latest styles and Extension agents teach the girls to select attractive patterns, buy good fabrics and plan a practical wardrobe. Hats, bags, and other accessories are designed, too, at a considerable savings.

Evidence that 4-Hers do acquire a working knowledge and skill in dressmaking is the fact that in 1949 more than 2 million garments were made by some 591,000 club members. Another important phase of the clothing program is learning how to remodel out-of-date dresses and coats. Many daughters are saving the family budget by making over apparel for younger brothers and sisters.

In addition to these accomplishments, members have a chance to earn recognition for outstanding achievement in clothing work. The Spool Cotton Company, sponsor of the program, provides scholarship awards of $300 each to the 15 top ranking girls in the nation; an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for State champion; and gold medals for county winners.

The 1949 state award went to Emma Lawrence, of Grand Ridge. County medals were sent to 33 girls.

The program is conducted under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Scholarship Tests To Be Held Through State

Examinations for 328 teaching or training scholarships will be held throughout the State on April 11. State School Superintendent H. H. Bailey announced today.

The scholarships include 131 Senatorial, 137 House of Representatives and 137 State School Superintendent awards. They'll be filled by competitive examinations.

The scholars are part of the State's teacher recruitment program to get more high ability students into the teaching profession.

remains unchanged, retaining the powerful head room, leg room, chair-height seats and ease of entrance and exit that have proved so popular in the 1949 models.

One entirely new model, the Newport, has been introduced. This is known as a special club coupe, but in effect it is a hard top convertible available on both six and eight-cylinder chassis. It offers the sleek lines of a standard convertible, with the added safety provided by a fixed steel top. Chrysler's new self-aligning disc brakes are standard equipment on the Town and Country Newport, as well as on the Crown Imperial models.

Appearance improvements begin at the front bumper, which is wider and more massive, and are carried through to the rear bumper. Different styling features have been incorporated in the sizes and in the details, so that one is really distinguished from the other at first glance. Among the points of difference between the two lines are parking lights, the location of the molding on the front fender, the emblems on the front of the radiator and the wheel covers.

35 Standard Body Colors Upholstery options have been increased and four fabrics are offered. Fifteen standard body color and four special colors are available, nine of them entirely new.

The new 12-inch diameter brakes adapted for the sizes have 15 per cent more lining contact area than the 11-inch type formerly used. This results in lighter brake pedal pressure and greater reserve.

More than 1,633 Florida students have participated in the program since 1944, Bailey reported.

Invitation To Bid On L-8 Delayed

Invitations to bid on the construction of canal and levee L-8, part of the Central and Southern Flood Control program, has been delayed until the middle of March.

Bids will be open twenty days after the invitation is issued, according to Colonel R. W. Pearson, District United States engineer.

Canal and levee L-8, to start east of Twenty Mile Bend, will bend northward toward the St. Lucie Canal.

What value would you place on your telephone?

What value would you put on your telephone if you were to name your own price? What value would you place on those errands your telephone runs, all over town, in good weather and bad? What is it worth to chat with friends and relatives whenever you please... or to make a date for bridge or golf?

What value would you put on that busy-up call to the family doctor... or on those important business calls you sometimes receive at home? What's the price tag on a familiar voice, telephone service stands out as one of the day's real bargains.

Probably you'd find it almost impossible to estimate the full value of constant dependable telephone service. When you think how much it does for you compared to what you pay, telephone service stands out as one of the day's real bargains.
